A SUPPLEMENT TO URE'S DICTION-ARY OF ARTS, MANUFACTURES, AND MINES, CONTAINING A CLEAR EXPOSITION OF THEIR PRINCIPLES AND PRACTICE. From the last Edition, Edited by Robert Hunt, F. R. S., F. S. S., Keeper of Mining Records, Formerly Professor of Physics, Government School of Mines, &c., &c., Assisted by numerous Contributors eminent in Science and familiar with Manufactures. Illustrated with Seven Hundred Engravings on Wood. New York: Appleton and Company.

This is a huge volume of 1096 pages, comprising the chief additions made to the late English edition of Ure's Dictionary. The volume is rich with the latest results of inquiry, and, together with the Dictionary as given in the preceding edition, forms the completest repertory of arts, manufactures, and mines, which has yet been published. Those who possess Ure's Dictionary in the preceding edition have only to obtain this volume in order to complete the work according to the present advanced stage of the arts and sciences Moreover, the independent value of the volame is almost beyond calculation.

HEAT CONSIDERED AS A MODE OF MOTION. By John Tyndall, F. R. S., &c. New York: D. Appleton and Company.

This work of Professor Tyndall consists of ourse of twelve lectures delivered at the Royal Institution of Great Britain in the season of 1862. The purpose of the lectures is to develop the dynamical theory of heat as contradistinguished from the material theory. The material theory, as defined by Professor Tyndall, supposes heat to be a kind of matter-a subtle fluid-stored up in the inter-atomic spaces of bodies. The dynamical theory, on the contrary, discards the idea of tion of matter-a motion of its ultimate particles. As we have said, the purpose of these lectures is to develop the dynamical theory. And the purpose is accomplished with masterly skill, great learning, and very uncommon ability. The high theme is so handled as to be made intelligible to the plainest reader. The work constitutes one of the most instructive, suggestive, and deeply interesting contributions that have been recently made to ratural philosophy.

WAR PICTURES FROM THE SOUTH. By B. lonel of Cavalry in the Confederate Army. New York: D. Appleton and Com-

The pictures of which this volume consists are drawn in a commendable spirit of impartiality. The author is a foreigner, who, residing in the South at the outbreak of the rebellion as he had resided for several years before, was induced principally by considerations growing out of this fact to take service in the Confederate army. Having left that service, he addressed himself to the task of composing the present work, which he dedicates "to the soldiers of the two contending armies, as a greeting from afar." The work will be read with lively interest by American readers of whatever section. It is a sort of running history of the first year and a half of the war, with particular sketches of the early battles in Virginia. The author wields a graphic as well as an impartial pen. "He begins," says a contemporary, "with the riot at Baltimore, and after the Bull Run battles proceeds to describe the operations in Western Virginia under McClellan and Rosecrans; he then follows the course of events in the Western battles, Lexington, Belmont, Forts Henry and Donelson, from which he returns to the East-to Roanoke Island and Newbern, ending with the bloody series of struggles on the Peninsula. Much that he relates is familiar to us, though not to English readers, for whom the volume was written. The preface is dated 'Dover, May, 1863,' from which we infer that the author is no longer in the Confederate service. That he never should have been in it we feel in every page of his work, and, what is more, we are sure that ne himself felt so. He was too good a soldier and too honorable a man to sympathize with much that was done around him. From the beginning he was anxious to have the war-conducted on Christian principles, a laudable desire, in which, at the start at least, he was nearly alone. The brutalities of the Confederate au_ thorities toward our prisoners at Richmond disgusted him, and he did what little he could to alleviate their condition, and to mitigate the horrors of war in similar cases. He is severe, contemptuous even, on many of the Confederate generals; others, however, he praises highly. He metes out to us the same measure. judging both sides from a soldierly point of view. On the whole the balance inclines in our favor, enough so to make his volume exceedingly distasteful to his former companions in arms. For one of our generals he expresses the most unqualified admiration-McClellan." All together, the work is fitted to instruct as well as to entertain. It cannot be read without profit as well as interest.

HISTORY OF SECRET SOCIETIES AND OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY OF FRANCE FROM 1830 TO 1848. By Lucien de la Hodde. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott and Company.

The publication of this history in our country at the present time is very opportune, It is also a little sarcastic, with the help of the translator's preface, which is as follows: "To a certain class of American politicians—the predominant one for the last five years-a perusal of this curious history is strongly recommended. It will prove suggestive to them of many energetic measures for the improvement of governments in particular, and humanity in general, which they possibly may not have yet put in practice." Let the galled jade wince. We should add, that, besides the main thread of the history, the volume contains sketches of Louis Philippe and the Revolution of February, together with portraits, conspiracies, and a variety of incidents hitherto unpublished. It is a valuable collection of facts touching a very curious and important topic. It is well worthy of a thoughtful

THE COMPANY CLERK. By Capt. August V. Kautz, Sixth U. S. Cavalry: Colonel Second Ohio Vol. Cavalry. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott & Co.

We have numerous handbooks for military service that tell us what to do, but few, if any, that tell us how to do it. This little volume supplies the desideratum so far as relates to the company, showing, as it does, how and when to make out all the returns, reports, rolls, and other papers, and what to do with them, and how to keep all the books, records, and accounts required in the administration of a company, troop, or battery in the army of the United States. The work must prove invaluable to the thousands who have such duties to perform as well as signally beneficial to the service in general.

Correspondence of the Louisville Journal.] WINCHESTER, TENN., Aug. 19. The weather is still so hot that much active rie weather is still so not that index agrees soldiering is out of the question. Nevertheless, last week our enterprising Colonel sent us into Wilson county, of which Lebanon is the principal town, for the purpose of catching Hawkins, the noted scout of Bragg's army, and as many of his men as possible. Heap heap heap appropriate the proposition of the property of ing Hawkins, the my, and as many of his men as possible. The my, and as many of his men as possible. The has been annoying us no little, and nearly every day or two men come in with paroles countersigned "By order of Wm. S. Hawkins, "Wheelar's Mt'd Scouts." The Col. Comd'g Wheeler's Mt'd Scouts." The men captured are unanimous in their praises of his kind and humane treatment of them, and Hawkins and his men are becoming as proverbial with us for gallantry and good humor as John Morgan was before promotion brutalized him.

Hawkins eluded our prolonged search, though some of the boys gave him a close race more than once. He is young and fearless, and goes splendidly mounted. We learn that his property of the search materiality as applied to heat, assuming that that his immediate staff consists of some half heat is not matter, but an incident or condies on our courier lines and outposts, aud who are, like himself, men of considerable educa-tion, and of most seeming refinement of manner. I have seen some of Gen. Rosecrans' staff, who state that he is the same officer that was on Wheeler's staff as Inspector General, and who frequently met them under flags of truce before the battle of Murfreesboro. It seems that he has been promoted, and is now a bona fide Colonel, and has been placed in charge of the scouting service of Wheeler's

Cavalry Corps.

One of our boys on the way lagged behind too far, and was "gobbled up" instanter by the rebel leaders' men, who hovered in flank and rear all the time, but who, to do them of bushwhacking. He afterwards made his escape, and has communicated to me some in-teresting particulars of his forced visit to the partisan camp, which I have thought proper communicate as matter of interest.

G. was haggling with a rebel damsel with unkempt hair about the price of a chicken, and so was delayed. He started after us rap-idly, but just as he was nearing the line a butternut stuck a villainous looking shotgun out of the bushes at him, and said: "Come off that horse, old fellow. I know you. Col. Haw-kins sent me here just for the purpose of nab-bing you." Under the persuading influences of the old shotgun G. complied very promptly, and, after a despairing glance at one of oi columns lessening in the distance, resigned himself to his fate. He was carried by his jolly guide by intricate paths, and through morass and glen, to the guerilla camp. After getting a smack, composed in part of the hicken he had himself purchased, he took a prolonged hap, as the men in camp seemed to be as sleepy as they could be, doubtless from their confirmed habits of night-walking. About sundown Hawkins himself rode in. He was riding a fine thoroughbred horse, with the usual caparisons of an efficer's outfit, everything being strong, but nothing fanciful. He wore a plain suit of weather-beaten gray cloth, pants and a neat-fitting roundabout, bearing no badge of rank. In his holsters were two fine pistols, and his neat black hat was looped up with a star. He is a man of not more than twenty-five years of age, with a light moustache. He has a frank and manly look about him, and his manners are so gentle and pleasant that G. did not wonder at the evident devotion of his men. The distinguished guerilla (though he disclaims that name) conversed with me very freely. He referred in particular to the course of our State and re-proached the Southern men of Kentucky for not having been more open and devoted at the outset. "Now," said he, "the gyves are about outset. "Now," said ne, "the gy ves are about their limbs and the gags are on their mouths. My heart bleeds for them, though they hardly deserve any sympathy from us." "I argued with him," said G., "but he spoke of the publications in the Democrat and other papers, and spoke of the official orders, too, as glaring and undisputed facts. That evening one or two buggies drove up, each containing a couple of charming ladies, and some baskets of blooming peaches for the handsome Colonel.

Hawkins divided the fruit with his staff. and sent to each of his prisoners a couple with his compliments and the hope that such fruit would be more acceptable that way than if stolen. The ladies were plainly but very neatly dressed, and very evidently looked upon the young chieftain as a hero of the first order. After his supper the party sang some songs, and one which I admired most I send you, especially as my captor is the author of it. It seems that he is as accomplished in wielding his pen as his sword. The young rebel maiden sang it very sweetly, and after-wards kindly gave me a copy of the words. That night I managed to put out, as my guards were very sleepy, and, making my way to the turnpike, lay hid all the next day, and after night again concealed my move-ments. I made my way across Stone river ody is indeed loyal to our good old flag, and Hawkins and his men are enlisted soldiers of the Confederacy, and seemed to have all confidence that Bragg and Wheeler would assist them in their isolated and dangerous posi-tion in the rear of our army and nearly two hundred miles from their own. They are well mounted and well armed, and seemed to bave plenty of ammunition. I only saw some 70 together, but learned that 300 men are acting under Hawkins's control. A prominent fruit grower of Western New York, from a single patch of 16 acres, sent to market thirteen hundred bushels of strawberries of the Wilson Seedling and Triomphe de Gand varieties. The entire crop was sold at an average price of one shilling per quart, realizing the snug sum of five thou-sand two hundred dollars as the product of 16 acres of ground. We doubt whether any other sixteen acres in New York have yielded the like sum as the result of a single crop.

When the President's proclamation of eman ipation was issued, it was very manifest that ted to a future difficulty of the gravest im asses of citizens. The conservative men ac-cipated and feared the difficulty. Now begin to face the difficulty, and to see dred thousand failed, and the promises of e disbanding of rebel armies, and the going ome of rebel soldiers to protect their families, like failed. Northern division was made vide and acrimonious. But a new elemen had been introduced into the war. The prolamation not only declared all slaves free in certain districts, but also pledged the army and the navy to maintain that freedom. In-stead of having before us the work of only ompelling submission to the laws and cons ution—instead of a war the end of which hould be reached when that submission was ffected, we had added to our labors the compelling of rebel States and people to subnit to a change in their own local law and social regulations, and thus superadded to our war for the constitution a war to con struct new State constitutions. This was probably not the view of Mr. Lincoln when he issued the proclamation. It was stated at the time that he and his immediate advisers at Washington did not so view the ef-fect of the proclamation. We know nothing of the authority on which this statement was made. But the radicals so viewed it, and de-termined to press the President into their inrpretation, which, indeed, was a very clear terpretation of the words of the proclama-From time to time the subject was casually discussed, and one or another took one or another view of it; some declaring that the oclamation, being a military measure, could be revoked at any moment; others maintain irg that it had passed into a national law, and had established the freedom of all slaves in the described districts, who could never be re-enslaved. But the discussion never assumed so much importance as at present, when it threatens the disruption of the administration party and the assumption by the President of one interpretation or the other. The Republicans are dividing on the question, because it is believed to be of immetion, because it is believed to be of immediate practical importance. On the one hand it is urged that the opportunity is propitious for raising a strong Union party in the South by offering a recall of the proclamation; and on the other hand it is asserted that we ought never to stop fighting till we have compelled the abolition of slavery. By one party it is emphatically asserted that we cannot have peace for years with the abolition policy mainlained, and that we can have it at once aintained, and that we can have it at one with the adoption of a pacificatory constitu-tional policy; while the other, the radical branch of the party, maintain that we had better fight on for years rather than lose the hance to destroy the peculiar institution.

That this question is now rending the ranks f the Administration party is abundantly vident. The following extract from the Washington Republican exhibits an opening

The above paragraph appeared in the organ yest

By the "contractors organ" the Republican intends to designate Mr. Forney's Chronicle.

The meeting of politicians at Washington is believed to relate to this controversy. Former experience would lead to the expectation that the radical wing will triumph and the conservative wing, as heretofore quietly submit and follow the lead of the radicals. But we are still not without hope that the result may be otherwise. So far as the popular voice is an indication, there is no doubt that ten to one of the people are ready and anxious to have the President adopt the sensible, conservative view of the case, and give the Union men of the South an portunity to make their voices heard as od. There is but one expression of opinion outside of partisan political circles, and that is in favor of this view. If a vote could be taken in the country, the radicals would be found in such a minority that they would be as-tounded at their own small show. It is a sustom with the radical party to claim that all who are in favor of sustaining the war are in favor of their peculiar views of policy. This is a gross error and misrepresentation—so gross that it is hardly worth contradicting. Nevertheless, the atmosphere of Washington is and has always been so thoroughly radical, that it is difficult for the President to see through it and understand clearly the mind of the recole. It is on this second that of the people. It is on this account the duty of conservative men on the Republican side to make some earnest endeavor just now to reach the President with a true representation expected to produce any impression. But we cannot fail to see that conservative Republicans have been lax in their duty in this respec heretofore, and are likely to be so now. A wast amount of the failures of the war are chargeable on the apathy and neglect of con-servative Republicans, in allowing radicals to represent their party at Washington, and to have the ear of the administration. It has been the custom among right-thinking Re-publicans to stand back until radicals had, by pressure, compelled the adoption of their policy, and then fall into the ranks and say, "Well, we must sustain the administration." It is all nonsense to talk about a no-party administration. From the day it entered office the administration has, by a thousand acts, repudiated any reputation of no-party ism and has been a pure Republican party Admini and has been a pure kepublican party Administration. We need not argue this point. Enough that it is impossible for men not belonging to the Republican party to produce any change in or to have any influence over the national policy. The responsibility of the whole course is with the party which not only elected this administration, but which has labored steedfastly aided by the administration. bored steadfastly, aided by the administration, to perpetuate its hold on power. One officer dismissed the army for distributing Democratc tickets in New Hampshire, whilst a host of others are sustained in stumping the State for the opposite ticket, settles definitely this characteristic of the administration. Therefore we beg conservative members of the Republica party to exert themselves in the present emergency, make themselves heard, and show that icalism is confined to a very small part of It is not impossible, even at this late moment. for the administration to regain a large share of its lost reputation with the people, and do much toward reuniting the North and the whole country. Let the policy of the wiser, enservative men of the Republican party b conservative men of the Republican party be adopted, and the people will rally to it, for the salvation of the Constitution. The other policy is revolutionary, and will but increase opposition, and that opposition will be stronger and stronger as the radical policy progresses.

The past is past. We cannot undo it. Expressing the sentiments of the thinking conressing the sentiments of the thinking con we men of the country, as we know w servative men of the country, as we know we do, and of a large, a very large majority of the people of the North, we can say that with all cur sorrow and regret over the errors made and wrongs done to the Constitution and the principles of liberty by this Administration, we are determined to regard Mr. Lincoln as the President of the United States till the 4th of March, 1865, and if he will adopt a policy which is within the Constitution and not revolutionary, we will insure him the support of nine-tenths of the people in that policy. But nine-tenths of the people in that policy. But it is as vain to attempt to bring the people to custain any other policy as it would be to lead the drops of water up Niagara. We believe that Mr. Lincoln can now save the Constitution and restore the Union if he will abandon the advice of a class of men who seeking only to hold office and preserve party power, are determined never to permit the Southern people to be again voting citizens of our Union. The war can be easily ended and peace restored. Time alone can heal the terrible wounds and restore perfect arrives. ble wounds and restore perfect amity. Po tical associations must aid in this. FRANCE AND POLAND-A NEW FRENCH PAM-PHLET-PROBABLE SEMI-OFFICIAL EXPO-

An anenymous pamphlet-one of the nu merous class with which the French pres-teems in periods of political excitement—has just appeared in Paris, and has become the talk of the town, especially as it is generally believed to be a semi-official exposition of the riews of the Emperor on the Polish question is entitled "L'Empereur, la Pologne," Europe." The report is that this projuction comes straight from Vichy, but, however that may be, the writer speaks with an air of au-thority which the laws on the press make it impossible to suppose a mere assumption. He professes to tell not only what the Emperor thinks, but also what the Emperor means to do; and, after declaring that "there is no doubt that, if his Majesty the Emperor had only consulted the dictates of his heart, a decisive word would long since have been spoken," proceeds to rount out the difficulties, which heart the settlement of the Polish question by means than that of Poland. Friends or foes, all are conscious that a prodigious disturbance may be the result. If the suppression of the Polish nation last century changed the appearance of the political world, her restoration at present would affect the existence of almost every European state. The magnitude of an undertaking is no reason why it should not be attempted, so that it be just and necessary; but, it is necessary to quard against illusions. but it is necessary to guard against illusions, and when a man or sovereign is determined not to flinch, he owes it to himself not to be of the pending difficulty the writer says:

"The representatives of the Russian Court said at first, 'It is a mere rising of rebellious subjects; it will be over in a week.' Weeks and months have passed; the emeute has grown into an insurrection. The evil has grown more serious. Now when there is a fire inside a house the owner may say, 'Let me put it cut by myself; but when the flames reach the roof and the partition walls, not only the nearest neighbors but the whole community is justified in taking the matter up and suppressing the cause of the fire.' Then follows a denunciation of the alleged

"At one time it was hoped that such barbarous conduct was solely due to the excess of zeal of a general. But since the observations presented to the government of Alexander I responsibility must needs be cast upon him. This is deeply to be regretted (ce qui est profondement penible). The Oabinet of St. Petersburg should not have forgotten the extremity to which the King of Naples, Ferdinand II, reduced the Western powers. * Is it necessary to say that France, which sends her soldiers as far as Indo China to protect Catholicism, cannot behold in cold blood the transportation or execution of Catholic priests and bishops in Poland?"

The manner in which a war against Russia could be waged by the three Powers is thus responsibility must needs be cast upon him

"Prussia possibly holds in her hands at this moment peace or war. May she, by another attitude, disappoint those who predict she is hastening to a catastrophe! A generous in-spiration would soon add to the importance of a State which, for the last fifty years, unfortunately for itself, has held too much aloot from events, and kept, as it were, inactive.

"France has had enough of glory not to be possessed with an immoderate craving for more; she is powerful enough not to behold without dissatisfaction the approach of war, convinced that it will lead to fresh triumphs. "The word of France is pledged that serious ameliorations shall be effected in the condition of the Poles. The government of her Britan-nic Majesty has laid down, with sound practical sense, that the first element of a good government was the existence of mutual dence between the rulers and the ruled. And it has pointed out that, to establish a some-what stable order of things, it was necessary that the fresh organization should embrace all the Polish provinces—that is to say, the whole of the country which the various par-titions have taken from Poland to submit to the Empire of Russia. We are happy to find ourselves in thorough conformity of with our old and gallant Crimean ally.

"The government of the Emperor Napoleon has made known from the outset that the combinations which had been tried and failed should be abandoned, and that the root of the evil should be extirpated. "The Emperor Alexander II must bear in mind that the conditions would be more strin gent after than before a war. He might not have an opportunity of renewing the episode of the interview on the Niemen. France, once her sword is drawn, will hold herself bound to liberate Lithurana as she liberated Lembardy.

COTTON.—Our correspondent, writing from Natchez, Mississippi, on the 12th inst., mentions the arrival of an immense wagon train loaded with cotton, and he states further that there are one hundred thousand bales of cotton in that section marked C. S. A. This may be an exaggeration, but there is undoubtedly a large amount of cotton in that country, which the rebel authorities had collected as security for the bonds that their sympathizers in Europe recently purchased. This will be Europe recently purchased. This wanpleasant news, therefore, for English who invested in the Confederate loan. It will onvince them that the investment promises to be even more permanent than that which is represented by the repudiated Mississippi bonds.—Cincinnati Gazette.

[Special despatches to the Louisville Journal." WASHINGTON, August 27. It is quite well known that no reply has been received from Earl Russell relative to the protest made by the Government against the fitting out of Anglo-rebel vessels in Eng-land. It was made through Minister Adams some time since, but by the last mail from London there is no intimation of any answer. Similar delay is said to have occurred at every step of this question—sufficiently long, as it terwards proved, for the vessels to get out of English ports.

The Savannah News of the 18th says it is estimated that the number of soldiers now in the Confederate army, and rapidly forming for the field, is 575,000. This hardly reaches one half our fighting population.

Gen. Roger Pryor has resigned his commission as Brigadier-General and is now serving as a private in the 13th Virginia cavalry.

The Montgomery Mail of the 21st inst. says that Adjutant Cunningham, who recently arrived at Richmond, states that a number of Morgan's men have escaped through the Yanee lines from Ohio. They are encamped near Morristown, Tenn., and will soon be in a con dition to pick up a few hostages for the secu-rity of their beloved commander. The Government, has commenced the publi-ation of the reports of all corps commanders Grant's army in the campaign against icksburg. That of Gen. Sherman is just out. Advices from the army possess no interest. The Navy Department received despatches hey referred to business matters only. Five housand men have been furnished with fr orses and new equipments at Camp Davis in ess than four weeks. Col. Clendenen, of the 8th Illinois cavalry, in command, has sent to the field in a month over 7,000 men. The cavalry force of the Army of the Potomac will soon be in excelnt order and again ready for active work The Republican of this evening says that on Monday Col. According to statements of prisoners captured, Mosby received a severe wound and was carried to a farm house in the vicinity. His apture is deemed certain. One rebel lieutenrivates captured. Our loss was one killed wo wounded, and seven missing.

Reports from the front since the above publication says that Mosby died to-day of his wound, at the farm house above mentioned. There is scarcely a doubt of the fact. A party of deserters from Gen. Lee's army came into Gen. Meade's headquarters to-day. They confirm fully the previous accounts

Two of them, belonging to the 8th Georgia regiment, report Gen. Stuart as having been ieved from his cavalry command and Gen. Alabama, is a Union Whig. His defeat of Gov. Shorter, the secession candidate, is resentiment in that State in favor of the

A Morris Island letter of the 24th to the Herald says that seven deserters, who escaped from Fort Moultrie on Thursday night to the Montauk, besides giving much other informa-tion, state that two blockade-runners succeed-ed in eluding our vessels and ran safely into Charleston last Sunday night.

They were discovered by our blockaders and fired upon, but the night was so dark and misty that they were quickly lost sight of. They were probably a portion of a large fleet due here from Nassau with valuable cargoes.
On the 23d, making good his notice to Beauregard, Gilmore directed Lieut. Sellmer, commanding the marsh battery, to open with his rifled guns upon the city of Charleston during the night, and between 1 and 2 o'clock on Saturday fifteen shells, Birney's invention, were pitched over the James Island batteries, The effect of this demonstration agains

Sumpter was reduced because it was in the way of the navy, but Admiral Dablgren has as yet made no advance toward con he work which Gilmore has so gloriously be-

The army is unable to do more. Gilmore bas performed his part of the contract, and it now remains for the navy to enter upon and per orm its part of the work.

A week's delay may enable the rebels to replace Sumpter by new batteries within the halbor which will make the capture of Chirleston as far off as it was before we fired the first shot against it.

There is a deep feeling of fear growing on shere that the truits of our glorious triumph will be permitted to slip from our grasp by the inexplicable procrastination on the part of the navy.

Icannot explain this seeming want of energy on the part of the naval authorities. Thy may be able to do it, but some more remons must be given than those already in circulation, or the country will feel far from atsfied with the results of the naval operations in this quarter.

Morris Island, July 24.—There is little to Though Sumpter has been rendered useless for deface, the big guns in our batteries were delberately engaged in rounding off its revery parapet, the prospect of its early transfer to Federal ownership daily brightens.

The destruction of Sumpter relieves the guns and batteries, which may now be otherwise employed. That Wagner is destined to feel their power and yield before them is considered certain. The guns of James Island batteries continged to play upon this place of ours with great mimation all night, but without damage.

The Herald's special says the first interview between Gen. Meredith, recently appointed commissioner for the exchange of prisoners, and Mr. Ould, the rebel commissioner, took place at City Point on the 23d. Some points a dispute were arranged but arrangements. dispute were arranged, but arrangements r an exchange of paroled prisoners were not or an exchange of paroled prisoners were not completed. Negotiations are still in progress. The imprisonment of John Morgau and his officers in the Ohio Penitentiary has brought he rebel authorities to terms, and it has been greed that Col. Straight, and the officers of tis command who have been so long similarly mprisoned, shall be placed on the footing of he other prisoners of war.

This will probably be responded to by the estoration of Morgan and his officers to a similar status.

Gen. Neal Dow has been turned over to the

A parallel can scarcely be found in the deeds of the "red devils" in the early history of our country. The atrocity of the "massacre of Wyoming" in the Valley of the Susquehanna and of the bloody horrors at Deerfield | pliances go far beyond the Greek fire. There is far surpassed. It seems difficult to believe that even the authorities of the rebel Confederacy, deeply as they are steeped in guilt, can fail to condemn and punish such awful outrages. If they uphold or tolerate the acts of Quantrill and his bloody fiends, they should be outlawed by all the world. .

This dreadful occurrence teaches the necessity of the extermination of the guerillas who | javelins, and thrown into the fortifications are at work in that section. We have had the pleasure of announcing that the famous or notorious Gen. Jeff. Thompson and his whole staff are prisoners. This is a very important capture. Jeff Thompson, as a guerilla leader, has given us far more for the tribes, at Mt. Sinai. Divine vengeance trouble in Missouri than any other officer in fell heavily upon these wicked leaders. All the rebel service. He has been the soul and the right arm of the guerilla system in that State, receiving applause and promotion from ace, and in fulfilment of the prediction of Elihis government as a reward for his efficiency. There seems to be in Jeff Thompson a smart spice of the rowdy, but we have reason to believe that he is by no means so bad a man as many have represented him and not a hundreth part so bad as those other guerilla chiefs in Missouri and elsewhere who have marked every step of their progress with massacre and destruction. Jeff has no doubt robbed, but we guess he hasn't murdered. Jeff's heart isn't exactly in the right place, and it isn't exactly the right kind of heart, but it is a pretty considerable heart nevertheless. We suppose he is in safe quarters for the rest of a mistake," and, that "adherence to the volthe war, and we hope he will be treated according to his deserts. But watch him close, guards; been adhered to, indicate? Ay, what? he is as slippery as a greased eel.

We owe Jeff some little personal courtesy, and, if we had an opportunity, we would pay it in a favorite currency of his-old Bourbon. We should like to send him in his captivity a demi-john and a demi-semi-john.

We learn that Beauregard's remonstrance against Gilmore's use of Greek fire in the bombardment of Charleston was on account of the horrid smell emitted by that substance. No doubt he thinks we should charge our bombs with cologne and lavender and ottar of roses, but we have a right to stink Charleston to death if we can-to throw Chinese "stinkpots" into her or to pitch from a big mortar a whole barrel of skunks into her streets. If the rebels can't stand the odor, let them cut off their noses.

ARLINGTON, KELLY, LEON, & DONNIKER'S MINSTRELS.—The weather was very unpropitious yesterday, but Masonic Temple was the performance, as usual, was good. They have an entire change of programme each night, which is something new in this era of patent, sterreotyped minstrelsy. Kelly's beautiful singing, Leon's elegant dancing, Donniker's superb violin solos, Arlington, Jones, and Price's comicalities and negro delineations, to say nothing of other meritorious features, make up a collection of unsurpassed attractions. This is their last night in our city. On Monday night they appear in New Albany, and on Tuesday night in Jefferson-

THE HORTICULTURAL EXHIBITION .- We are now at the full of our harvest moon, and the season for fruits and flowers is at its height. We may therefore expect a very fine display at the Masonic Hall this morning under the auspices of the Horticultural Society, the members of which have labored earnestly to introduce the finest varieties of fruit into our vicinity, and have been so very successful in their cultivation. There has been a white frost in the neighborhood of Cincinnati, and the cold here is dangerous, so that to-day's exhibition may be the last at which we can the season's fruitage in its perfection.

FOR THE INAUGURATION .- Col. Gill, Superintendent of the railroads between Louisville and Lexington, has announced a round trip for the Inauguration at three dollars. The tickets will be good on Monday and Tuesday to go up to Franktort, and for Tuesday and Wednesday returning. The delightful change in the weather and the pleasing nature of the inaugural ceremonies, combine to render their proposed trip full of the promise of enjoyment. The hop in the evening will exhibit a blaze of beautiful Kentucky belles.

DEATH BY POISONING.—Erastus Holmes, living near Milford, Ohio, was accidentally poisoned at his residence last Wednesday morning, and died in two hours. He had been to Cincinnati, and, returning home and feeling fatigued, poured out of a bottle what he thought was brandy, but which proved to be a fatal draught of poison. Mr. Holmes has relatives in this city and New Albany. He leaves a family deeply afflicted, but in the midst of affluence and wealth.
